From this element comes the simultaneous satisfaction of needs both internal (satisfaction of the Management and Personnel) and external (satisfaction of the customer and market and public opinion). In particular, for the range of customers that Regas serves, the achievement of a high standard of quality is, by its nature, inseparable from the continuous respect and commitment to the environment, health and safety in its activities The same policies of the customer are increasingly directed in this direction, so REGAS S.p.A. promotes and finds in the needs of its customers reason and purpose for continuous improvement in Quality, Environment, Safety and Health (QAS).

To meet these needs the management meets annually and revises the Company Policy, so that it remains appropriate to the size of the QAS issues of the organization.

The company is committed to preventing environmental impacts, accidents and occupational diseases due to its activities, through an effective application of the integrated management system Environment, Health and Safety of Workers.
